Required texts:

Supplemental materials can be found at the following website: http://kspope.com/index.php

Course Objectives:
a. To explore ethical, legal, and professional issues relevant to individual and group counseling, and other specific counseling areas: e.g., multicultural counseling, counseling with older adults, psychological testing, etc.
b. To develop a model for making ethical decisions.
c. To continue to develop one's professional identity and ethical practice.
d. To examine the nature of the therapeutic relationship.
e. To examine the roles and responsibilities of counselors as mental health professionals and agents of social change.
f. To examine the influence of the social context on human development.
g. To become aware of client empowerment, advocacy, and social change as potential part of the counseling process.
h. To examine the impact of therapists’ values in the counseling relationship.
i. To examine the ethical and practical implications of working cross-culturally in counseling and as a social change agent.
j. Familiarity with professional ethical codes.

CACREP Standards (2009):
II.G.1. this course will provide students with an understanding of all of the following aspects of professional functioning:
a. history and philosophy of the counseling profession;
b. professional roles, functions, and relationships with other human service providers, including strategies for interagency/interorganization collaboration and communications;
c. counselors’ roles and responsibilities as members of an interdisciplinary emergency management response team during a local, regional, or national crisis, disaster or other trauma-causing event;
d. self-care strategies appropriate to the counselor role;
e. counseling supervision models, practices, and processes;
f. professional organizations, including membership benefits, activities, services to members, and current issues;
g. professional credentialing, including certification, licensure, and accreditation practices and standards, and the effects of public policy on these issues;
h. the role and process of the professional counselor advocating on behalf of the profession;
i. advocacy processes needed to address institutional and social barriers that impede access, equity, and success for clients; and
j. ethical standards of professional organizations and credentialing bodies, and applications of ethical and legal considerations in professional counseling.

Method of Instruction:
  a. professor lectures
  b. class discussion
  c. presentation of audiovisual material when appropriate
  d. internet-based learning
  e. student presentations.

Inclusive Excellence:
WSU recognizes that our individual differences can deepen our understanding of one another and the world around us, rather than divide us. In this class, people of all ethnicities, genders and gender identities, religions, ages, sexual orientations, disabilities, socioeconomic backgrounds, regions, and nationalities are strongly encouraged to share their rich array of perspectives and experiences. If you feel your differences may in some way isolate you from WSU’s community or if you have a need of any specific accommodations, please speak with the instructor early in the semester about your concerns and what we can do together to help you become an active and engaged member of our class and community.

Students with Disabilities Notice:
Students with documented disabilities who may need accommodations, who have any medical emergency information the instructor should know of, or who need special arrangements in the event of an evacuation, should make an appointment with the instructor as soon as possible, no later than the 1st week of the term.

Electronic Device Notice:
As a matter of courtesy to your classmates and the instructor, please turn off your beepers, cell phones, and any other electronic devices that make any noise.

Laptop/PDA Policy:
Excluding students with a documented disability, the use of laptops and PDAs in class is prohibited without prior permission of the instructor.

E-mail Policy:
You are assigned a university e-mail account that will be used by professors. Students should make every effort to get to know their account and check it regularly.
Course Expectations:

Diversity Statement:
This is meant to be a safe, welcoming, and inclusive classroom environment for students of all races, ethnicities, sexual orientations, gender identities/variances, ages, religions, economic classes, and ability statuses. As such, you will be encouraged and challenged to use language and basic counseling techniques that are respectful, inclusive, representative and culturally appropriate.

Attendance & Participation:
The syllabus details readings for each week. When students come to class, it is expected that the readings will be finished, and the students will be prepared to engage in meaningful discussion about them. You will receive a participation grade and this will reflect your professionalism including attendance, participation, preparation for class, and professional conduct. Attendance and participation will be worth 25 points towards your final grade.

Assignments:
Assignments are to be turned in via the D2L drop box on the day the assignment is due, unless otherwise specified. Only in the event of documentable extenuating circumstances are assignments accepted late. With the exception of documentable emergencies, late assignments will be assessed a 2-point deduction per day of lateness up to two weeks, after which late assignments will not be accepted.

Evaluation:
There will four online quizzes in this class, administered on D2L. You may use your text, any notes you have taken, in addition to the ACA ethics codes, which will be provided. You may not work on the exams with others in the class. All exams will be multiple choice and will be worth 25 points.

Ethical Conduct:
In this course, as in every other course in the counseling program, it is expected that all students adhere to the ethical guidelines as outlined by the American Counseling Association’s Code of Ethics which can be found at http://www.counseling.org/Resources/CodeOfEthics/TP/Home/CT2.aspx. Some of the material discussed in this course is of a sensitive nature. It is expected that students will engage with the material and with each other in this course, while maintaining appropriate boundaries and behaviors. Please discuss with the professor any concerns you have regarding ethical conduct.

Academic Integrity:
Students are expected to practice professionalism and academic integrity in all assignments and class discussions. This includes but is not limited to treating other students and the professor respectfully, engaging in meaningful class discussions, thinking and writing critically and thoughtfully, creating original works, and citing all resources using APA format. Plagiarism will result in loss of credit for this course, and further consequences may result from the university system.
Assignments:

1. Review of 2014 ACA Ethics Codes (25 points)
   Students will work in small groups to review the current ACA Ethical Codes (2005), and the ACA Ethical Codes Revised (2014) to create a formal response and critique of the revised codes, which will be submitted by the instructor to the ACA Ethics Revision Taskforce. Critiques must directly reference the revised code. In other words, global feedback is not as useful as specific feedback on particular sections of the code. A rational must be given for any suggestions. To say you simply do not like something is not going to carry any weight with the taskforce. Critiques will be evaluated based on content, quality of written work, and depth of understanding demonstrated.

2. Lying on the Couch Discussion Boards (3 Boards – 60 points total – 20 points/Discussion board)
   Each week you will be required to respond to a discussion section on D2L pertaining to your readings from Lying on the Couch, by Irvin Yalom. You will be required to create an original response to each discussion question, and respond at least twice to another classmate’s response. We will spend some time in class reflecting on these discussion topics, however, the majority of discussion about this novel will take place on D2L. You can think of this as “Online Ethics Book Club.” It is expected that you will read all discussion posts, and be actively engaged in the discussion throughout the week. Your posts should be thoughtful, purposeful, and well-written. Points will be assigned based on the content of your response, as well as the quality of your written response.

3. In Treatment Discussion Boards (4 Boards – 20 points total - 5 points/Discussion board)
   The online component of this course will partly consist of your viewing a therapeutic encounter from beginning to end, from the HBO series In Treatment, Season 1. The client you will view each week is Sophie, who works with therapist, Paul. The sessions that are not viewed in class will be made available online using Tegrity technology. You are free to rent or buy the series as an alternative to watching sessions on Tegrity if you wish. Your discussion posts should be thoughtful, purposeful, and well-written, and express your reaction to the session as well as any questions you would like to post to the instructor and your classmates. You are required to create an original response to the session and respond at least twice to others’ posts. Points will be assigned based on the content of your response, as well as the quality of your written response.

4. Informed Consent Review and Critique (10 points – pass/no credit)
   Before writing your own informed consent (see assignment below), you will conduct a review of available informed consent forms for your chosen track. These can be obtained by doing a simple internet search, or by visiting local human service agencies or schools and requesting to view their informed consent document. Each student will submit two informed consent forms to D2L, including an informed consent critique for each (checklist will be provided to aid in your critique).

5. Development of an Informed Consent (25 points)
   For this assignment, you will develop a “working” informed consent at your particular stage of development as a counselor. You will receive guidance as to the critical things to include (see Informed Consent Checklist mentioned above). Consider this your first shot at an informed consent, and expect that it will change and evolve as you change and evolve as a counselor. You will submit this assignment to D2L, and also bring a hard copy to class to compare with other classmates.

6. Development and Resolution of a Case Study (40 points (15 points – case; 25 points - resolution)
For this assignment, you and a small group will develop a case study which will present several ethical dilemmas. Your group will have time to meet in class to fully develop your case and work towards resolution. Your case must include three identifiable ethical concerns. You will also formulate a resolution of your case which will be included in your submission. Your resolution must demonstrate a model of ethical decision-making, include the ACA Ethics codes in the resolution, as well as at least two outside sources that aid in the resolution (i.e. research articles, expert consultation, textbooks, etc.). Your case and resolution will be evaluated by the instructor before other students have an opportunity to respond to it. Your case will be published to the D2L discussion board without its resolution in order for students to respond. After the due date for responses has passed, your resolution (including edits and suggestions for improvement) will be published for all students to view.

7. Response to a Group’s Case Study (20 points (10 points/response)
You will create two individual responses to student-developed case studies. Your responses must demonstrate a model of ethical decision-making and include the ACA Ethics codes in the resolution. Your responses will be submitted to the D2L Discussion Board. Once all responses have been submitted, the group’s official resolution of the case will be published.

8. Social Action Initiative (Appendix A; 100 points – 75 for paper, 25 for Facebook page)
A significant part of being a counselor is learning how to advocate for others and for the counseling profession. For this assignment, you will choose a social action topic that you feel particularly motivated by, and develop an action plan that details how you might go about initiating the process of creating social change. You will be working in dyads/groups for this project. Your topic must be cleared with me, however, you have a lot of flexibility in the topic you choose. Be sure you are keeping in mind crucial aspects of ethics that you will have learned in this course while designing your initiative such as confidentiality, professional boundaries, and informed consent, among others. You may use a variety of resources in developing your social action initiative, such as research articles, community resources, and online resources. While this is a hypothetical initiative, be realistic in your planning, just in case you get really fired up and actually want to follow through with it! Your completed initiative should be 12-15 pages, double spaced, using APA 6th edition format.

In addition to the paper, your group will develop a Facebook page to advertise your Social Action Project and inform others of the initiative. This is an opportunity to transform your paper into something that is presentable and available to the public. Each group will create a Facebook page for their Social Action Project. All students will become members of the page and view each group’s page and reflect on their findings within the page. There is an Ethics Facebook page that I have created which can serve as a model, a “home-base” for you to access other group’s pages, and a growing network of students committed to professional ethics and social action: WSU Counselor Education Ethics Facebook page.
Your grade for this project is based partially on the one I assign based on your final work that you turn in as well as your Facebook page. I will assign a grade for your final project, and the amount of that final grade that you receive will be based on your group members’ evaluation of your contribution to the project. A survey tool will be created for each group member to evaluate each member of the group. You will be sent a summary of the feedback your group members provide at the end of the term. For example, if I award 100 points to your project, and your group members collectively only give you a 90% for your group participation, I will award you 90% of the 100 points I awarded your group, therefore, you would receive 90 points for the project.

Social Action Initiative

Groups of 2-4, Due Date: June 28, 2013

For this project, you will form small groups of 2-4 to create a social action initiative. What this means is that your group will choose a topic that you feel particularly motivated or passionate about, and propose to create a meaningful change in this area through intervention or advocacy. You are allowed a great deal of flexibility in the topic that you choose, but you must clear the topic with me before you begin planning.

A large part of our work as counselors is advocating for social change, and advocating for groups of individuals that are oppressed, discriminated against, or are otherwise invisible. This project gives you the opportunity to choose a topic related to a specific marginalized group or social issue, and make a plan for creating social change that is designed to bring awareness and social change regarding a social justice issue (e.g., discrimination, racism, heterosexism, transphobia, adultism).

You will be given some time in class to work with your group on this project, but some work will need to be done outside of class. You may choose your groups for this project based on common interests. Your final grade for this project will be determined by the quality of your collective work, and the evaluation of your group members. The final project will be turned in in the form of a 12-15 page, double-spaced paper, following APA 6th edition format, in addition to your development of a Facebook page designed to bring awareness to your topic or group. The 12-15 page guideline does not include title page and reference page. You will be graded based on the clarity of writing, thoughtfulness, level of sensitivity to the issue, ethical sensitivity, and thoroughness of your completed project.

Your group will create a Facebook page that I will evaluate and your classmates will respond to. All students will become members of your group, in addition to any other members you would like to invite, and the page will serve as a first step towards putting your initiative into action. The page could include video clips that you create and post, interesting articles that you find regarding your topic, events that you create or attend to bring awareness to your topic, video clips that you find on the internet that speak to your topic, posts that your group creates throughout the process of developing the topic, educating others who visit the page, etc. You are encouraged to bring whatever resources you have to this page, creating a Facebook page/group that is informed, motivated, passionate, and dedicated to advocacy. Your page should be informative, user friendly, visually appealing, and should include multiple sources of information (at least 5).

The general format of your paper should follow the guidelines of writing a research paper according to APA 6th edition publication guidelines. I have outlined below the important content areas of your paper:

- Introduction and literature review: Introduce the problem, and give some history as to its development based on the literature. You may also research the area by contacting community resources and/or searching resources on the internet. Lead up to stating the purpose of your initiative and give support for the necessity of your initiative. This section should be about 5 pages.

- Method: This is where you introduce your initiative. Explain how you will do it, so that if you actually do this someday, you have a really good place to start. Who will be included? How will you get the word out? What will your initiative entail, in detail? What steps will you take to make sure you are acting ethically in your implementation of your social action initiative? This section should be about 5 pages, but take the space you need to make sure you are explaining your initiative in detail.

- Results: What do you expect to accomplish by implementing this initiative. What changes do you expect to make? How lasting will the changes be? Will this be an ongoing initiative, or time-limited? How will you evaluate your effectiveness? This section should be about 2 pages.

- Discussion: This section is meant to be a place to reflect on your work and think towards the future in terms of your individual roles as advocates for clients and for the counseling profession. You also should discuss some of the challenges and limitations that you may encounter while implementing this initiative.
