

WINONA

STATE UNIVERSITY

Position: Tenure-track Assistant or Associate Professor position in Statistics starting Fall 2009 in the Department of Mathematics and Statistics. Starting salary is commensurate with rank and experience.

Responsibilities: Primary duty is to teach a wide variety of undergraduate statistics courses. Duties may also include teaching master's or doctorate level service courses. Possibilities exist for a reduction in teaching load through significant collaborative work with regional industries and/or medical facilities. Research is encouraged as part of a faculty member's overall scholarly and creative activity. Active participation in departmental and university efforts including committee work and student advising is required.

Qualifications: Ph.D. in Statistics or Biostatistics with an anticipated completion date by August 2009. Candidates must provide evidence of:

- excellence in teaching and
- strong communication skills.

Preference will be given to candidates who have:

- knowledge of both applied and theoretical statistics,
- the ability to work cooperatively with colleagues,
- interest in research involving undergraduate students, grant writing and curriculum development,
- interest and ability to consult with university and non-university personnel, and
- expertise in biostatistics, statistical education, or sampling/survey methods.

Department: The statistics program at Winona State University has achieved a national reputation for excellence. Students have recently completed internships at the Census Bureau, Mayo Clinic, Gundersen Lutheran and other industries. A large percentage of graduates have pursued graduate study. The Department of Mathematics and Statistics has 23 full-time faculty members including 7 statistics faculty. The department offers majors and minors in statistics, mathematics, and mathematics education. The statistics curriculum includes 21 courses in statistics.
