STAFF PERFORMANCE EVALUATION

Guide to Conducting a Successful Performance Evaluation

About the Performance Evaluation:

Although Performance Evaluations are conducted annually, it is good practice to provide the employee feedback regarding their performance throughout the year. The Evaluation is intended to be the last task in what should be an ongoing, year-round process. Two-way communication between employees and supervisors is critical to everyone's success. Providing feedback and candidly addressing concerns can build a more productive work environment. An open dialogue can help clear the air and pave the way for an effective performance Evaluation with no hard feelings and a clearer perspective on expectations. Nothing contained in the Performance Evaluation should be a surprise; it should not be the first time an employee hears about an issue.

Reviewing the Position Description:

Position Descriptions are an essential part of the Annual Evaluation process. Utilize the Position Description when completing the Evaluation.

1. A review of the position description is to be completed each year, with the understanding that it should be revised if the position changes. Minimally, the position description should be updated, signed, and turned into HR every three years.
2. Do not let inaccuracies with a PD delay the completion of the Annual Evaluation. Base the responsibilities on what you know are the current duties of the job.

When changes to the position description occur:

- Submit a signed hard copy to Human Resources (Somsen 114)
- Send an electronic copy to humanresources@winona.edu and include a summary of the changes in your email.

The Process:

Prior to the Meeting:

1. Utilize the comment sections.
2. Base your responses on the performance over the entire past year.
3. Schedule a time in advance, in a quiet and private location.
4. Give the employee a copy of the evaluation to review before the meeting.

During the Meeting:

1. Welcome them!
2. Compare the performance results and behaviors to the objectives.
 - Let the employee know about areas where there is a need for improvement.
 - Keep your criticism or feedback constructive and be prepared to discuss.
 - Avoid making generalizations about the employee's personality or attitude, and stick to facts.
 - Even if you and an employee disagree on a point, you can both express your opinions.
 - Be thoughtful about what you say. Have consistent expectations of all your employees without regard to the classes protected by law.
 - Ask the employee for ideas about how to resolve problems.
3. Listen and allow the employee the opportunity to respond.
4. Set goals together for the next evaluation period.
 - Include development and training plans.
 - Ensure goals are Specific, Measureable, Achievable, Relevant, and Time-bound.
5. Summarize the session.
6. Explain that the signed original will be sent to Human Resources for placement in his/her personnel file.
7. Both the supervisor and the employee sign the Evaluation. Signing the Evaluation does not mean the employee agrees with the Evaluation; it means that the evaluation has been shared with the employee.
8. Provide a signed copy of the evaluation to the employee.
9. If the employee wants to provide a written response following the meeting set a timeframe so you can attach it to the evaluation prior to the submission to your supervisor.

Following the Meeting:

1. Keep a copy for your files.
2. Secure your supervisor's signature.
3. Submit to the original signed evaluation to Human Resources Office (Somsen 114) by the deadline.
