

DOCUMENTATION GUIDELINES

Documentation is confidential information from an appropriately qualified health or other service professional who is knowledgeable about your condition. This professional might be a therapist, doctor, rehabilitation counselor, audiologist, nurse practitioner, or mobility specialist. Documentation can vary in length and format but should focus on the ways the condition currently affects you, especially in an academic setting. Below are some examples of useful documentation:

- Psycho-educational evaluation
- Neuropsychological assessment
- Individualized Educational Plan(IEP)
- 504 Plan
- Vocational Assessment
- Information on previous use of accommodations
- Statement from health or service provider
- Mobility assessment

Documentation is used to better understand your experience of your condition, identify how it impacts you in the academic environment, and make informed decisions to determine reasonable and appropriate accommodations. Documentation combined with a conversation about your experiences and expectations will help to identify the necessary information to support your accommodation requests.
